- Marine Chief Cook (“skipskokk”), which represents training of nine years’ primary schooling followed by a course of basic training and minimum three years’ specialized vocational training including at least three months’ seagoing service.’

- (ii) Under the subheading “(b) Sea fishing”:

‘in Iceland:

- ship’s captain (“skipstjóri”),
- chief mate (“stýrimaður”),
- watchkeeping officer (“undirstýrimaður”), which represents training of nine or ten years’ primary schooling followed by two years’ service at sea, supplemented by two years of specialized vocational training culminating in an examination and is recognized under the Torremolinos Convention (1977 International Convention for the Safety of Fishing Vessels).’

- (iii) Under a new subheading “(c) Mobile drilling rig personnel”:

‘in Norway:

- platform manager (“plattformsjef”),
- stability section manager (“stabilitetssjef”),
- control room operator (“kontrollromoperatør”),
- technical section leader (“teknisk sjef”),
- assistant technical section leader (“teknisk assistent”), which represents training of nine years’ primary schooling, followed by a two year course of basic training, supplemented by at least one year’s service off-shore and,

- for the control room operator, one year of specialized vocational training,
- for the others, two and a half years of specialized vocational training.’

- (c) Under the heading “4. Technical sector”:

‘in Liechtenstein:

- fiduciary expert (“Treuhänder”)

Length, level and requirements

The training is based on nine years’ compulsory school – unless a maturity certificate is achieved – a commercial apprenticeship of three years with training of practical skills in an enterprise, while the necessary theoretical knowledge as well as general education are provided by a vocational school, both combined leading to the national examination (National certificate of proficiency as a commercial employee).

After three years of practical experience in an enterprise combined with further theoretical education of four years, which may be done simultaneously, the national diploma may be passed, leading to the abovementioned professional title.

In general the whole duration of this training is between 16 and 19 years.

Regulations

The profession is regulated by national legislation. Any candidate is free to choose the way he wants to prepare himself for the examination (vocational schools, private schools, distance learning).

- auditing expert (“Wirtschaftsprüfer”)

Length, level and requirements

The training is based on nine years of compulsory school, followed by a commercial apprenticeship of three years with training and practical skills in an enterprise, while the necessary theoretical knowledge as well as general education are provided by a vocational school.

After three more years of practical experience in an enterprise and further theoretical education of five years, which may be done simultaneously as distance learning, the national diploma may be passed, leading to the abovementioned professional title.

The whole duration of this training is between 17 and 18 years. Candidates who have gained their practical experience abroad have only to provide proof of a further year’s professional experience in Liechtenstein.

Regulations

The profession is regulated by national legislation.’
